SPUDS

By Nicole Gehman, MS, RD, CDN

Carbohydrate vegetables (AKA starchy vegetables) include potatoes (both sweet and white), yams, pumpkin, corn, peas, beans & legumes, and winter squashes such as acorn and butternut. There always seems to be confusion amongst white vs. sweet potatoes, the benefits, nutrient differences, and which one we should choose most often.

Calorically, a serving of each potato is the same. If you are watching calories and nondiabetic, enjoy white potatoes and sweet potatoes in moderation.

There is a rating system for carbohydrate foods called the “Glycemic Index” (GI) which ranks the food on a scale of 1-100 based on how much the food raises blood glucose. We all know carbohydrates raise our blood glucose. When a carbohydrate is paired with fiber or protein, blood sugar rises gradually, as opposed to spiking. Although the carb content of each potato is similar, sweet potatoes are lower on the GI than white potatoes because they contain more fiber per serving. When looking to better control blood glucose, choosing a serving of sweet potato over white potato would be recommended.

SWEET POTATO 	WHITE POTATO
Per 2/3 cup serving Calories: 65 Protein: 2 g Fat: .1 g Carbohydrates: 14 g Vitamin C: 30 mg Folate: 10 ug Potassium: 250 mg Beta-carotene: 6600 ug Fiber: 3 g Glycemic Index: 61	Per 2/3 cup serving Calories: 64 Protein: 2.3 g Fat: .1 g Carbohydrates: 13 g Vitamin C: 31 mg Folate: 10 ug Potassium: 450 mg Beta-carotene: 0 ug Fiber: 1.8 g Glycemic Index: 85

The nutritional profile of each is quite similar with the exception of potassium, Vitamin A, and beta-carotene (yellow orange pigment in plants which gives them their color). The potassium content of white potatoes is nearly double what a sweet potato contains. If you need to watch your potassium intake for any reason, choosing a serving of sweet potato would be 200 mg less. Beta carotene is the rich orange color of sweet potatoes, which our body converts to vitamin A supporting eye health. It is also an antioxidant.

Both potatoes are an acceptable choice for the carbohydrate portion of your meal. Overall, sweet potatoes have more nutritional value. Swapping out white potatoes for sweet potatoes the nutrient content of your plate - just watch the portion size. If you are diabetic, sweet potatoes are the healthier choice to control blood sugar. A carb vegetable serving is about $\frac{1}{2}$ cup.

ADOPT A PET - A COMPANION PET

The Greene County Department of Human Services has a number of companion pets looking for loving homes with homebound seniors who may be lonely and looking for a little something to bring a smile to their face.

Companion pets are designed to bring comfort, companionship and fun to elderly, lonely, loved ones. Our interactive puppies, kittens and birds are all about an ease-of-care and convenience that pairs with technology for the best possible experience. The dogs have all of their love to give, but they won't chew your furniture. The cats will bring a smile to your face, but there's no litter box to clean. And the birds will sing a beautiful song to you.

Live animals require a lot of special attention and care. Animatronic pets offer you all of the benefits, without all of the special needs involved.

The Joy for All Companion dog reacts to touch and voice - barking and whining, moving its eyes, wagging its tail and turning its head in response to your voice. When you snuggle, you can feel the heart beating. The cats respond to petting, hugging and motion, even rolling over on its back; similar to what live cats do.

The department previously placed several companion pets with residents of Greene County and the benefits have been immeasurable. Companion pets have been a useful tool in our arsenal for bringing comfort to older, homebound adults

If you or a loved one could benefit from one of our furry companion pets, and help ease the social isolation of a senior citizen, we have a limited supply available. Please contact a Case Manager at 518-719-3555 for more information.

DELIVER HOMEBOUND MEALS

The department provides healthy, balanced meals to Greene County residents, age 60 and older, who cannot prepare meals for themselves. Volunteers deliver these meals and check on the senior. Drivers needed for routes throughout Greene County.

HOMEBOUND MEDICAL TRANSPORTATION

Homebound Medical Transportation Service is available through the Department to county residents, age 60 and older, that do not have other options for needed transportation. The program will arrange for a volunteer driver to transport seniors to medical appointments and to special entitlement agencies.

Are you willing to drive seniors to appointments in a neighboring county?
We especially could use you.

Mileage reimbursement is available for all miles driven for both programs.

INFORMATION BULLETIN

TO: First Responders

FROM: New York State Sheriffs' Association

Look for the YELLOW DOT

Yellow Dot is a life-saving program, started in Connecticut in 2002, which has spread across the country. The New York State Sheriffs' Association is working to make the Yellow Dot program available to help all New York citizens and First Responders.

Over 2 million Yellow Dot kits have been distributed in New York State and we want you to know the meaning if you see one.

Yellow Dot kits are available for free at:

www.nysheriffs.org/yellowdot

Or contact Greene County Sheriff's Office or Greene County Dept. of Human Services

Yellow Dot is a free program designed to help First Responders provide life-saving medical attention during that first "golden hour" after a crash or other emergency. The Yellow Dot kit contains a medical information card and a Yellow Dot decal.

DRIVERS:

- Complete the card.
- Place it in car glove box.
- Place the Yellow Dot decal on the rear driver's side window.

At HOME, participants:

- Place a Yellow Dot decal near the front door.
- Place a completed card in the freezer compartment of the refrigerator.

FIRST RESPONDERS:

At the scene of a vehicle emergency, look for the Yellow Dot on the rear driver's side window and find vital medical information in the glove compartment. Transport the card with the patient to the hospital.

At the scene of an emergency in a home, look for the Yellow Dot on or near the front door and find vital medical information in the freezer. Transport the card with the patient to the hospital.

Spread The Word

Yellow Dot only works if First Responders know to look for it. Please share this information with your colleagues. You can also go to www.nysheriffs.org/yellowdot for more information.
